Dear Carl:-

Thanks for your letter of April 12th. It was my first news of your move & I am very sorry that you have gone. Glad you are enjoying it, however. Would have thought the weather colder. Getting the Braves is no compensation for losing the Wiltaker menage.

As for Madrid, Marian & I were only there for 2 days. Kept thinking we'd get back, but never did. We stayed at the Savoy Hotel which was pretty good (+ accepted cocker spaniels.) This was ten years ago. Two restaurants that were good then were CHIPEN and the HOSTERIA LAUREL. They do suckling pigs beautifully, and also the baby squirrel cooked in its own ink, which may not sound too good, but is truly delicious.

also Henry's had good fried chicken if you get hungry for it. We saw some fine Flamenco dancing at some night club. At the town of OROPESA to the west a big castle had been turned into an inn with very good food, and at MEDICINELLI to the east there was a gov't. inn (parador) on a mountain with a fine view & good food.

El Retiro Park in Madrid was very pleasant. I have to admit we never even got into the Prado because we kept thinking we would come back but never did. We were on the Costa Brava near Barcelona for about a year. If you think you'll be going there, let me know & I'll tell you what I remember. The Michelin Guide Book for Spain will be the most useful book you'll ever find.

Hope you have fun & that we'll be able to hear about it some time.

Regards,

Henry
