Dear Carl and Muriel:

I have just read "A Biography of Carl A. Whitaker" in VOICES. I found myself deeply moved and quite thrilled to discover the little bits of factual data which somehow brought the two of you even closer than I had previously experienced you.

The concluding quotation from Frost's "The Road Not Taken" was poignantly significant to me, and I think that the young woman sitting next to me (on the bus as I was reading your biography) was confused to see such a strange display of emotions in my face.

With lots and lots of empathy and affection.

Cordially,

Henry
